The Conduct of Life is a collection of essays by Ralph Waldo Emerson published in 1860 and revised in 1876. In this volume, Emerson sets out to answer the question of the times: How shall I live. It is composed of nine essays, each preceded by a poem. These nine essays are largely based on lectures Emerson held throughout the country, including for a young, mercantile audience in the lyceums of the Midwestern boomtowns of the 1850s. The Conduct of Life has been named as both one of Emersons best works and one of his worst. It was one of Emersons most successful publications and has been identified as a source of influence for a number of writers, including Friedrich Nietzsche. Three years after publishing his English Traits, Bostons Ticknor and Fields announced on 27 December 1859, an early appearance of a new book by Emerson titled The Conduct of Life. Confirmed as completed on 10 November 1860, Emersons seventh mayor work came out on 12 December of the same year simultaneously in the US and in Great Britain...
