STATE PRISON. --ohn Lofquist, a life prisoner in the Columbus, O. , penitentiary, has, during the term of his incarceration, raised a flock of several hundred pigeons. Every one of the birds knows him and will go to him at call. He says that each has a name and that he can tell one from the other by the difference in their faces, which he claims are as characteristic as the faces of human beings. The pigeons, when they take up their morning fly for exercise, soar high up in the air and circle above, but never, unless driven by hunger, go beyond the boundary of the big walls. MIGRATION OF HAWKS IN RHODE ISLAND. BY c. G. DUNN, BOSTON, MASS. N certain sections of Rhode Island large flights of hawks may be seen during the latter part of August, and through September and October,...
