THE BOOKSELLER, NEWSDEALER AND STATIONER VOLUME 38

Not Avail, United States, 2012. Paperback. Book Condition: New. 246 x 189 mm. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand .This historic book may have numerous typos and missing text. Purchasers can download a free scanned copy of the original book (without typos) from the publisher. Not indexed. Not illustrated. 1913 Excerpt: .drawing that characterize the original paintings have been faithfully reproduced, so that each color plate is a work of art in itself. Aside from the pictural value of the book as an interpretation of animal life, a word must be said in commendation of the descriptive text by R. Lydekker, for he is a recognized authority on natural history and his descriptions which accompany the illustrations add greatly to the value of the work. W. J. Watt Co., New York. (Fiction.) A Song of Sixpence. By Frederic Arnold Kummer. 111. Net, $1.20. (Out.) A strongly written novel of a phase of modern life in which the author deals plainly with questions that are not usually discussed. It is the story of a woman--inordinately vain--who uses her beauty as capital with which to make a greater fortune. The Call of the Cumberlands. By Charles Neville Buck. 111. by Douglas Duer. 12 (April.) A romance of the Kentucky mountains and of the wild lawless people whose clannish feuds are the terror of the more peaceable people of the valleys. The author has lived in the regions he describes and his book is full of the primitive loves and hates of the mountaineers. It is said to be the best book that has ever appeared with the Watt imprint. The Wilderness Trail. By Frank Williams. 111. by Douglas Duer. 12. (May.) A story of the Hudson Bay Country and of the hard, rugged life of the North in...
